"MODIFICATION WILL BRING BACK SALOON"

VOLSTEAD "FATHER" OF ENFORCEMENT ACT, GIVES OPINION

SAYS "PROMISE OF SMITH TO ENFORCE DRY ACT AND AMENDMENT NOT SACRED"

"NO MORE SO THAN OATH SMITH TOOK TO ENFORCE AMENDMENT WHEN GOVERNOR"

St. Paul, Aug. 24.—(UP) — Andrew J. Volstead, "father of the enforcement act, declared in a statement here that the modification of the prohibition law as suggested by Governor Alfred E. Smith would mean the restoration of the saloon.

"The promise of Mr. Smith to enforce the prohibition law and the eighteenth amendment," Volstead said, "is no more secred than the oath he took to enforce the eighteenth amendment when he became governor of New York.

"His proposition to have a scientific investigation of the quantity of alcohol that liquor may contain is a joke. Anyone who knows enough to get in when it rains knows such a thing is impossible.

"If this proposition means anything it means that he wants a substantial increase in the alcoholic content of near beer to go on the market for sale in the soft drink bars. If this beer does not contain enough alcohol to have an intoxicating effect, it will be no different from the present beer and will satisfy no one. If it does, it will simply mean the restoration of the saloon.

"The plan of selling liquor by the states is being tried in Canada and is a failure. The dry forces there are as determined to get rid of government sales as our people were to get rid of the saloons.

"All protestations to the contrary, the result and only result of Mr. Smith's scheme would be to restore the saloon."

SMITH TAKING CARE OF HEALTH IN CAMPAIGN

SEEKS TO BE IN BEST FORM DURING THE COMING "PINCHES"

GRUELLING DAYS AND NIGHTS ON THE ROAD BEFORE NOVEMBER

By THOMAS L. STOKES
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

New York, Aug. 24. — Governor Alfred E. Smith is taking care of his health and planning his campaign program in such a way that he will be in the best form in the "pinches" during the gruelling days and nights on the road before November.

He locked up his desk in Albany yesterday, came here last night and began a period of relaxation from the busy days of the last few weeks that will last, with a few interruptions, until he begins his extended speaking tour some time after Labor day.

He will review the New Jersey national guard Saturday at Seagirt, two miles from Spring Lake. Mayor Frank Hague of Jersey City, one of the state democratic leaders, has arranged a monster political rally in connection with the review.

But in keeping with his program of saving himself for the campaign, Governor Smith will make no speech, despite the temptation offered by what promises to be one of the largest audiences he will face. Hague gathered 30,000 democrats at a similar rally for John W. Davis in 1924.

Governor Smith has decided definitely against making any back platform speeches during the coming campaign. Neither will he make any outdoor addresses.

From long experience as a campaigner, the governor knows the demands upon the bodily energies and upon the throat. Some years ago, he talked himself "hoarse" before the end of the campaign.

While withdrawing actively for a few days from the political picture, the nominee will watch closely the reaction from his acceptance speech, particularly his prohibition modification pronouncements.

In an interview, he said he saw no inconsistency between his modification plea and the campaigns by dry democrats for congress, and that his position will not bind them.

RIGA SOCIALISTS, STRIKERS, POLICE IN GORY CLASH

The government was considering proclaiming a state of seige.

Two hundred and fifty workers were arrested today, in addition to 400 arrested yesterday. Police were firing in the air to intimidate the rioters.

Minister of war Kalminsch returned hastily from his vacation.

The strike movement, which began yesterday among 5,000 harbor workers who walked out in protest against the trial of communist agitators in the Riga district court, spread today to the street railway workers.

The independent socialists joined the movement by holding open air meetings in protest against the government decree disbanding the radical trade unions. Rioting broke out when the police tried to break up the meetings.

First Signer of Kellogg Anti-War Pact to Be Gustav Stresemann, German Foreign Minister

ALPHABETICAL LIST OF FRANCE IS FOLLOWED

ARISTIDE BRIAND, IN A SHORT SPEECH TO WELCOME EACH DELEGATE

DELEGATES WILL SIT AT HORSE-SHOE TABLE, PEN DIPPED IN HISTORIC INKWELL

Paris, Aug. 24.—(UP) — As the first of the visiting diplomats started arriving today, France concluded all arrangements for the signing of the Kellogg anti-war pact.

The cabinet decided that the first signer would be Gustav Stresemann, German foreign minister, because the French alphabetical list was to be followed.

Aristide Briand, the French foreign minister, will make a short speech in welcome to each delegate. Signers will decide whether they desire to accompany their signature with a speech, or written to sign without comment.

The delegates will sit at a horse-shoe table and will be arranged according to their national alphabetical order. The signing will occur at a small table in front and the pen will be dipped in an inkwell that once was the property of Louis XVI.

Paris, Aug. 24.—The special train carrying United States Secretary of State Kellogg from Havre to Paris for the signing of the anti-war pact arrived in Paris shortly after 10 A. M., today, after a record run from the port town.

The train made the run in two hours and thirty-five minutes and made the distance in such swift time that the train arrived two minutes before the arrival of American Ambassador Myron T. Herrick at the Gare St. Nazare.

It was learned that the secretary has decided not to visit England on this trip. A representative of the state department said the secretary would leave Paris Wednesday and would go from Havre on the cruiser Detroit direct to Ireland where he will be the guest of President Cosgrave of the Irish Free State.

He will return to Cherbourg aboard the Detroit and sail for the United States on the Leviathan on September 4.

SUBMARINE SAFETY DEVICE OF NEW TYPE SHOWN

Washington, Aug. 24—(U.P.)—A new type submarine safety device—a compact, self-breathing apparatus—was successfully demonstrated yesterday by two navy divers who descended 110 feet in the Potomac river off Dahlgren, Va.

The device, helmet-shaped, is intended to enable sailors to rise from depths as great as 225 feet.

Going down in a box-like diving bell model, Lieut. C. B. Momsen and Diver Thomas Eadie attached the breather and, rising slowly hand-over-hand up a rope, came safely to the surface. Any danger of the "bends," caused by rapid changes in pressure, was avoided b ythe slow ascent.

DULUTH PILOT IS INSTANTLY KILLED

PLANE GOES INTO SIDE-SLIP AND PLUNGES INTO LAKE SUPERIOR NEAR DULUTH

Duluth, Minn., Aug. 24.—(UP)—Harvey Williamson, 22, limited commercial pilot for the Midplane Sales and Transit Company, Minneapolis, was instantly killed here Thursday when the plane he was piloting plunged into Lake Superior a short distance off Minnesota Point.

W. G. Holland, a fellow pilot, failed in his efforts to save him. Holland put off from shore in a motor boat and after diving to the sunken plane, succeeded in removing Williamson's body. Injuries had caused the pilot's death, however.

Observers of the accident said the plane went into a side-slip while banking against the wind. Officials of the company said the plane could be salvaged with little loss.

At Fessenden, N. D., the mercury dropped to 28 degrees, the lowest reported mark in the northwest. Garden truck was said to have been damaged although corn apparently was not affected.

The unseasonable weather indicated the end of a summer which was marked by unusually severe storms. Five times during the past three months the northwest was lashed by destructive wind, hail and rain, in which millions of dollars damage was done to crops and property and more than a score of persons killed.

GOV. CHRISTIANSON FAVORS HOOVER AFTER IOWA VISIT

CONFERS WITH REPUBLICAN NOMINEE ON AGRICULTURAL PROBLEMS

GOVERNOR SAYS THAT HERBERT HOOVER IS "HOPE OF THE FARMER"

St. Paul, Aug. 24.—(UP) — Gov. Theodore Christianson, upon his return today from Cedar Rapids, Iowa, declared that he was more than ever completely in favor of Herbert Hoover for president.

The governor, as well as other republican leaders, who conferred with the republican nominee on agricultural problems, said Hoover was the "hope of the farmer."

"I didn't hear a discordant note from members of the Minnesota delegation nor from members of any other of the so-called corn belt states represented," the governor said.

"When such leading progressive republicans as Sen. Brookhart, Iowa, and Sen. Nye, North Dakota, came out four-square for Hoover, there can be little question that they as well as other farm leaders, are convinced that Mr. Hoover will do everything in his power to give adequate relief to a distressed agriculture.

"I think I can say for all those who talked with Mr. Hoover, that we have been impressed with his knowledge of the imperative need for farm relief and of his sincerity in seeking the best method for such relief.

"I talked with many men from Iowa, Indiana, Illinois, Missouri, North Dakota, South Dakota and other states represented at the two-day conferences and failed to find a man who was not convincingly impressed with the fact that in and through Hoover, lies the hope of real relief for the farmer, so far as legislation can bring such relief."

Ludwig I. Roe, chairman of the republican state central committee, echoed the governor's sentiments.

SEARCH FOR FLIERS GROWS COMPLICATED

MYSTERIOUS RADIO MESSAGES PICKED UP BY VARIOUS AMATEURS

ONE STATED PLANE WAS ON AN ISLAND NORTH OF NEWFOUNDLAND

(By United Press)

The fate of the Greater Rockford missing on a flight to Greenland, was uncertain today.

Well-authenticated advices from the governor of Greenland reported that a plane, almost beyond doubt the Greater Rockford, had been seen flying over the western coast of Greenland on Sunday morning.

The search for the fliers was complicated by mysterious radio messages picked up by amateur operators in widely separated parts of the country, purporting to be from the Greater Rockford, and saying that the plane was on an island north of Newfoundland.

The messages asked that the United Press be notified of the landing. (The United Press had arranged with the crew, Bert Hassell and Parker Cramer, to notify the nearest United Press bureau in event of a landing).

Since the location of the supposed landing is more than 1,000 miles from where the plane was reported seen over Greenland on Sunday, the discrepancy was obvious. It appeared that either the plane seen over Greenland was not that of Hassell and Cramer, or that some 'wildcat" radio station was attempting a cruel hoax on the public and the anxious relatives of the fliers.

Two amateur operators in Brooklyn, N. Y., one in Toledo, O., and one in Chicago reported they picked up the message last night. The Toledo amateur and one of the Brooklyn amateurs reported that the message they picked up asked that the receiver "communicate with the United Press."

A remote possibility was that both reports could be true and that Hassell and Cramer, after finding their way to Greenland, thought they were off their course and over Newfoundland, coming down on an island off the coast. It was pointed out that such a vast error was extremely unlikely for an experienced pilot.

Another discrepancy was the fact that Cramer, who was handling the Greater Rockford's radio, was not an experienced sender. He had arranged a simple code system by which he could send single letters to designate the plane's position from time to time. The messages picked up last night were fairly long and, the receivers reported, sent with fair skill.

The amateurs also reported receiving the messages on varying wave lengths. The Toledo amateur picked his message up on 42 to 43 metres, while a Brooklyn operator got it on 22 meters. The Greater Rockford's wave length was 32.8 meters. Whoever sent the messages used the Greater Rockford's call letters—KHAH.

Toledo, O., Aug. 24.—Joseph E. Williams, an amateur radio operator, today advised the United Press he had been in communication with a radio station that signed itself KHAH and the sender reported "we are the Rockford to Sweden flyers" and said they were down "on a small island 100 miles north of Newfoundland."

Williams said he first intercepted a radio SOS on a wave length of between 42 and 43 meters—a general 40 meter band—and later established direct contact and talked with the sending station.

The men reported first in the general SOS they were down about 50 miles north of Newfoundland but later, according to Williams, said they believed the island was 100 miles north of Newfoundland.

The sending station reported they were safe but were urgently in need of aid and asked that Williams get help to them soon.

Chicago, Aug. 24. — Concurrently with the report of Joseph E. Williams, amateur radio operator of Toledo, O., that he had communicated with the missing Rockford-Stockholm fliers, Bert Hassell and Parker Cramer, a Chicago amateur, R. J.

SEARCH FOR FLIERS GROWS COMPLICATED

MYSTERIOUS RADIO MESSAGES PICKED UP BY VARIOUS AMATEURS

ONE STATED PLANE WAS ON AN ISLAND NORTH OF NEWFOUNDLAND

(By United Press)

The fate of the Greater Rockford missing on a flight to Greenland, was uncertain today.

Well-authenticated advices from the governor of Greenland reported that a plane, almost beyond doubt the Greater Rockford, had been seen flying over the western coast of Greenland on Sunday morning.

The search for the fliers was complicated by mysterious radio messages picked up by amateur operators in widely separated parts of the country, purporting to be from the Greater Rockford, and saying that the plane was on an island north of Newfoundland.

The messages asked that the United Press be notified of the landing. (The United Press had arranged with the crew, Bert Hassell and Parker Cramer, to notify the nearest United Press bureau in event of a landing).

Since the location of the supposed landing is more than 1,000 miles from where the plane was reported seen over Greenland on Sunday, the discrepancy was obvious. It appeared that either the plane seen over Greenland was not that of Hassell and Cramer, or that some 'wildcat" radio station was attempting a cruel hoax on the public and the anxious relatives of the fliers.

Two amateur operators in Brooklyn, N. Y., one in Toledo, O., and one in Chicago reported they picked up the message last night. The Toledo amateur and one of the Brooklyn amateurs reported that the message they picked up asked that the receiver "communicate with the United Press."

A remote possibility was that both reports could be true and that Hassell and Cramer, after finding their way to Greenland, thought they were off their course and over Newfoundland, coming down on an island off the coast. It was pointed out that such a vast error was extremely unlikely for an experienced pilot.

Another discrepancy was the fact that Cramer, who was handling the Greater Rockford's radio, was not an experienced sender. He had arranged a simple code system by which he could send single letters to designate the plane's position from time to time. The messages picked up last night were fairly long and, the receivers reported, sent with fair skill.

The amateurs also reported receiving the messages on varying wave lengths. The Toledo amateur picked his message up on 42 to 43 metres, while a Brooklyn operator got it on 22 meters. The Greater Rockford's wave length was 32.8 meters. Whoever sent the messages used the Greater Rockford's call letters—KHAH.

Toledo, O., Aug. 24.—Joseph E. Williams, an amateur radio operator, today advised the United Press he had been in communication with a radio station that signed itself KHAH and the sender reported "we are the Rockford to Sweden flyers" and said they were down "on a small island 100 miles north of Newfoundland."

Williams said he first intercepted a radio SOS on a wave length of between 42 and 43 meters—a general 40 meter band—and later established direct contact and talked with the sending station.

The men reported first in the general SOS they were down about 50 miles north of Newfoundland but later, according to Williams, said they believed the island was 100 miles north of Newfoundland.

The sending station reported they were safe but were urgently in need of aid and asked that Williams get help to them soon.

Chicago, Aug. 24. — Concurrently with the report of Joseph E. Williams, amateur radio operator of Toledo, O., that he had communicated with the missing Rockford-Stockholm fliers, Bert Hassell and Parker Cramer, a Chicago amateur, R. J.

BRAINERD 25 YEARS AGO

From the Daily Dispatch

August 24, 1903

The Atlas Milling Company mill in the city started to grind some wheat yesterday afternoon for the first time. Everything is not in good running order as yet, but the management expect to run regular shifts in a few days.

The company completed the mill a little sooner than they expected. They did not expect that the mill would get to running before the middle of next month at first. This will be a valuable industry for Brainerd.

Mrs. G. W. Mosier and daughter, Jean, departed on No. 6 for a two weeks' visit with relatives and friends in Chicago and Valparaiso, Ind.

G. H. Scofield left this afternoon for Duluth where he will make his home in the future. He has been promoted by the Northern Pacific and will become operator in the Union depot in the Zenith city. He has been operator at the shop in this city for four or five years.

A crew of men are at work planing the alleys of the Metropolitan Bowling parlors and the place will be opened on Saturday evening.

Miss Gladys Hyde of Fargo arrived Saturday and will be the guest of Miss Adeline McMannis for two weeks.

Extreme Northern Lands

The territory surrounding the North pole is owned by different nations. The United States owns Alaska. Canada owns some of the far northern territory. Denmark owns Greenland. Russia owns the land from Bering straits westward. Norway owns Spitzbergen. Denmark owns Iceland. There is no knowledge of land nearer the North pole than the places just listed.

LOCAL CHAPTER SENDS THREE

Brainerd Delegation Striving to Secure Next Convention for Brainerd

The State DeMolay Conclave will be held at Bemidji August 27 to 30 and delegates from all over the state will be in attendance. The local chapter of DeMolay are sending three delegates: Master Councillor John Fisher, Senior Councillor Francis George, and Acting Scribe James Tinkelpaugh. Other members to attend are Wendell Burns, Fritz Fredstrom, William Dosh, Russell Lind and Rolland Jenkins, Jr. The delegates and members will leave Sunday by car. G. F. (dad) Mitchell, one of the DeMolay advisors will also attend the conclave.

The program will include speeches by prominent members of the organization and many new ideas will be gained. The Brainerd delegations are striving to have the 1929 conclave held in Brainerd as the city has the facilities for such occasions.

BRAINERD 25 YEARS AGO

From the Daily Dispatch

August 24, 1903

The Atlas Milling Company mill in the city started to grind some wheat yesterday afternoon for the first time. Everything is not in good running order as yet, but the management expect to run regular shifts in a few days.

The company completed the mill a little sooner than they expected. They did not expect that the mill would get to running before the middle of next month at first. This will be a valuable industry for Brainerd.

Mrs. G. W. Mosier and daughter, Jean, departed on No. 6 for a two weeks' visit with relatives and friends in Chicago and Valparaiso, Ind.

G. H. Scofield left this afternoon for Duluth where he will make his home in the future. He has been promoted by the Northern Pacific and will become operator in the Union depot in the Zenith city. He has been operator at the shop in this city for four or five years.

A crew of men are at work planing the alleys of the Metropolitan Bowling parlors and the place will be opened on Saturday evening.

Miss Gladys Hyde of Fargo arrived Saturday and will be the guest of Miss Adeline McMannis for two weeks.

Extreme Northern Lands

The territory surrounding the North pole is owned by different nations. The United States owns Alaska. Canada owns some of the far northern territory. Denmark owns Greenland. Russia owns the land from Bering straits westward. Norway owns Spitzbergen. Denmark owns Iceland. There is no knowledge of land nearer the North pole than the places just listed.

Think It Over

Our love, our service, our helpfulness to others, invariably comes back to us, intensified sometimes a hundred or a thousand or a thousand thousand fold, and this by a great, immutable law.

Beyond Surgery

Progress in brain surgery is reported but it has not yet reached the point where it can transform the living politician into the living statesman.—Boston Transcript.

ELECTION CASES ARE DECIDED

Judge B. F. Wright Holds Joseph Sall Duly Elected Over Horace Humphrey

CROSBY VILLAGE ELECTION

Court Makes Finding Regarding Right of Teachers to Vote

In an order made by Judge B. F. Wright at Crosby, who heard the Crosby election contest case, instituted for the purpose of seating Horace Humphrey on the village council in place of Joseph Sall, who was declared elected at the last village election at Crosby, he held that Mr. Sall had been duly elected over Mr. Humphrey by a majority of 12 legal votes and that neither Mr. Sall or any person on his behalf with his knowledge or consent had violated any of the laws relative to elections.

Judge Wright found that there had been 9 votes cast illegally at the election, 5 cast for Mr. Sall, 2 for Mr. Humphrey and that he was unable to determine for whom the other 2 were cast.

On the question whether the teachers had a right to vote and for whom they voted, the court made the following finding:

"That all the school teachers whose votes were contested (23 teachers named), voted at said election in said village of Crosby. That evidenced adduced in this case taken all together fails to show that these teachers, or any of them, were not qualified, legal voters within the voting precinct of the village of Crosby at the time of the holding of said election, last March 13, and the court finds that they were legal voters within said voting precinct at said time, and that there is no evidence in this case to enable the court to determine for whom these teachers, or any o fthem, voted at said election. That there should be no deduction from the total number of votes counted and canvassed for either contestee, Joseph Sall or said Horace Humphrey on account of the voting of these teachers, or any of them."

The court in its memorandum attached to the order made the further following comment on the teacher vote:

"These teachers were intelligent young ladies and it would not be at all complimentary to them to say that they were influenced in their votes by their friendship and association with other people."

The contest which was instituted for the purpose of seating C. A. Yernberg as president of the council in place of F. H. Kraus, having been dismissed, when it was called for trial by the parties who instituted the contest, the decision in the Humphrey-Sall case, ends the contest growing out of the last vilalge election, unless an appeal is taken, which it is understood is not at all likely.

Beginning of Shorthand

The first English treatise on shorthand in which marks represented words was published in 1588 by Timothy Bright, M. D., under the title, "Characterie: An Art of Short, Swift and Secret Writing by Characters." Shorthand was practiced by the ancients for its secrecy as well as brevity, and a work is extant on the art which is ascribed to Tiro, the freedman of Cicero.

Explaining Whirlwind

The weather bureau says that the atmospheric pressure in a whirlwind is less than in the still air outside. There is thus a resistant force, directed toward the center of the whirl, acting on the air within the whirl. The tendency to fly off at a tangent is overcome by this inwardly directed force, and as a result the air moves circularly around the axis.

ONTARIO'S EXPERIMENT

THOSE who do not think prohibition is the best remedy against the evils of booze, are pointing to the Ontario experiment of government control, as advocated by Al Smith.

Says the Christian Science Monitor:

"Since the policy of government sale came into operation in Ontario liquor interests have shown repeatedly that they have no respect for the law. Recently the Ontario authorities seized liquor to the value of about $500,000 unlawfully stored on exporting docks within the vicinity of Windsor. Later evidence has led the authorities to take action against every border dock and warehouse.

"Liquor is taken to the export docks, ostensibly to be sold to an illicit market in the United States, but much of it is actually smuggled back into Ontario. This traffic is described by Sir Henry Drayton as 'short-circuiting.' Ontario is finding that the policy of government sale is incapable of making the liquor traffic law-abidng. Liquor is an enemy of law and order under any policy."

"The Ontario liquor board reports sales of a million dollars a week. The Alberta board announces sale of 4,000,000 gallons of intoxicants a year. The Quebec board informs us that 1,000,000 more gallon of beer were sold the second than the first year. Seven provincial liquor control boards for a Canadian territory, with 10,000,000 inhabitants, report an annual sale of $160,000,000 a year.

"These same boards report that hard liquor sales have increased 33 per cent in two years and 50 per cent since the opening of beer parlors.

"The Montreal Star informs us that drunkenness among women has increased 53 per cent. Police Commissioner C. F. Burton of Manitoba has written, 'If all the drunks were arrested there would be no room for them in the jials.' The Saskatchewan liquor board announces: 'Arrests for drunkenness increased 125 per cent in the first eight months of government control.' The Alberta liquor board says: 'Our greatest problem is moonshine in the country districts.' 'As much liquor is sold by bootleggers as is sold in the government stores,' adds the Saskatchewan liquor board, and the British Columbia board joins the astonishing chorus that 'bootlegging increased 111 per cent in the first year.'"

These are Canadian authorities. Evidently the Canadian experiment is not a success. Under the attempt of the government to control the sale, drunkenness by both men and women has increased, as has bootlegging. During the campaign we shall hear much about the success of the Ontario plan, and it will be well to remember what the Canadian authorities have to say about it.—St. Cloud Journal Press.

THEY READ THE DISPATCH

BRAINERD and its airport problem as given publicity in the Dispatch gains attention beyond state lines. The Dispatch received this letter from J. W. Dwyer, secretary of the Oelwein mmunity Club:

"I am informed that you are putting in a very fine airport and that you had a very fine article in your paper on the plan of this airport.

"We are up to a point where we will have to enlarge our field and I am wondering if you would send me a copy of the Dispatch containing this writeup. It will be greatly appreciated if you can do so."

All this reference is made to the Rosko field where Rosko Brothers, Henry and Peter are spending time and money levelling a field, constructing a double road, planning a hangar and making other improvements which will ultimately give the city a real airport. Aviators visiting the field are adding advice gained by experience. Aviator Imm of the Northern Airport took aerial views of the field to aid in proper locations.

The field, even in the unfinished shape it now is, is said to excel what Duluth has to offer.

PAINTING TARVIA CENTER LINE

IN REFERRING to the painting of a tarvia center line near the junction of Trunk Highways Nos. 2 and 19, on the straightaway of No. 2 we are informed that it was the indefatigable Mike Marea who had the sample strip of white and another of orange attached.

In discussing the situation with a Patterson-Sargent paint man, the latter told Mr. Marea that they furnished Texas with carloads of paint for center marking. He sent Mr. Marea a sample gallon from Kansas City and A. W. Moulster of the highway department marked it out and painted the strip. It is now being given a test and the results will be sent to the State Highway Department. It is hoped it will be favorable so that this and all tarvia highways may have a center stripe marking. It will tend to obviate accidents, will keep each car to its proper half of the highway and will do away with running into the frayed edge of the tarvia which generally lets a wheel fall through.

Express Appreciation of Rev. Long

To Brainerd Dispatch, City.

Dear Sirs:

We mothers believe we are voicing the feeling of many others of our city, when we thus publicly express our regret at the departure of Rev. Robert J. Long, and our deep appreciation of the work he has done among our children and young people. We believe Brainerd has never had a more successful and willing worker in this vitally important field of endeavor. Ably assisted by his friend, Herman Brichacek, Mr. Long has shown such genuine and whole-souled liking for our young people, such charity for their mistakes, such sympathetic insight into their natures and problems, such warm hospitality and willingness to open his pretty home for their use, such hearty cooperation in all their endeavors, as calls forth our deepest gratitude. Not only with the young people of St. Paul's, but with the boys of the Hi-Y, the DeMolays—in fact, with all the boys and girls of the city with whom he has come into contact, Mr. Long has shown a genius for friendliness and helpfulness.

We mothers of today are struggling through a wilderness of modern complexities and problems, trying to bring our youngsters to clean and efficient manhood and womanhood. These problems are not always understood by those who are not themselves concerned with such responsibilities, and we receive much criticism for our apparent failures. Mr. Long has always understood, and never criticized. We feel we are losing a most valuable ally.

ONTARIO'S EXPERIMENT

THOSE who do not think prohibition is the best remedy against the evils of booze, are pointing to the Ontario experiment of government control, as advocated by Al Smith.

Says the Christian Science Monitor:

"Since the policy of government sale came into operation in Ontario liquor interests have shown repeatedly that they have no respect for the law. Recently the Ontario authorities seized liquor to the value of about $500,000 unlawfully stored on exporting docks within the vicinity of Windsor. Later evidence has led the authorities to take action against every border dock and warehouse.

"Liquor is taken to the export docks, ostensibly to be sold to an illicit market in the United States, but much of it is actually smuggled back into Ontario. This traffic is described by Sir Henry Drayton as 'short-circuiting.' Ontario is finding that the policy of government sale is incapable of making the liquor traffic law-abidng. Liquor is an enemy of law and order under any policy."

Daniel P. Poling in the Christian Herald gives some other startling figures:

"The Ontario liquor board reports sales of a million dollars a week. The Alberta board announces sale of 4,000,000 gallons of intoxicants a year. The Quebec board informs us that 1,000,000 more gallon of beer were sold the second than the first year. Seven provincial liquor control boards for a Canadian territory, with 10,000,000 inhabitants, report an annual sale of $160,000,000 a year.

"These same boards report that hard liquor sales have increased 33 per cent in two years and 50 per cent since the opening of beer parlors.

"The Montreal Star informs us that drunkenness among women has increased 53 per cent. Police Commissioner C. F. Burton of Manitoba has written, 'If all the drunks were arrested there would be no room for them in the jials.' The Saskatchewan liquor board announces: 'Arrests for drunkenness increased 125 per cent in the first eight months of government control.' The Alberta liquor board says: 'Our greatest problem is moonshine in the country districts.' 'As much liquor is sold by bootleggers as is sold in the government stores,' adds the Saskatchewan liquor board, and the British Columbia board joins the astonishing chorus that 'bootlegging increased 111 per cent in the first year.'"

These are Canadian authorities. Evidently the Canadian experiment is not a success. Under the attempt of the government to control the sale, drunkenness by both men and women has increased, as has bootlegging. During the campaign we shall hear much about the success of the Ontario plan, and it will be well to remember what the Canadian authorities have to say about it.—St. Cloud Journal Press.

THEY READ THE DISPATCH

BRAINERD and its airport problem as given publicity in the Dispatch gains attention beyond state lines. The Dispatch received this letter from J. W. Dwyer, secretary of the Oelwein Community Club:

"I am informed that you are putting in a very fine airport and that you had a very fine article in your paper on the plan of this airport.

"We are up to a point where we will have to enlarge our field and I am wondering if you would send me a copy of the Dispatch containing this writeup. It will be greatly appreciated if you can do so."

All this reference is made to the Rosko field where Rosko Brothers, Henry and Peter are spending time and money levelling a field, constructing a double road, planning a hangar and making other improvements which will ultimately give the city a real airport. Aviators visiting the field are adding advice gained by experience. Aviator Imm of the Northern Airport took aerial views of the field to aid in proper locations.

The field, even in the unfinished shape it now is, is said to excel what Duluth has to offer.

PAINTING TARVIA CENTER LINE

IN REFERRING to the painting of a tarvia center line near the junction of Trunk Highways Nos. 2 and 19, on the straightaway of No. 2 we are informed that it was the indefatigable Mike Marea who had the sample strip of white and another of orange attached.

In discussing the situation with a Patterson-Sargent paint man, the latter told Mr. Marea that they furnished Texas with carloads of paint for center marking. He sent Mr. Marea a sample gallon from Kansas City and A. W. Moulster of the highway department marked it out and painted the strip. It is now being given a test and the results will be sent to the State Highway Department. It is hoped it will be favorable so that this and all tarvia highways may have a center stripe marking. It will tend to obviate accidents, will keep each car to its proper half of the highway and will do away with running into the frayed edge of the tarvia which generally lets a wheel fall through.

COACH KASCH TO GIVE MUCH ATTENTION TO FRESHMEN AND SOPHOMORES

Plans are being made to accommodate the largest squad of football players in the history of Brainerd High School when Coach Warren Kasch calls his warriors together in the opening session at the N. P. grounds on September 4th. Coach Kasch will have a nucleus of seven letter men from last year, around which he expects to build his 1928 gridiron machine.

The seven men are: Captain Fuller, Wise, Swanson, Guin, Goedderz, Fox and Art Hautala. Gabiou, who was ineligible last fall, has made up his scholastic difficulties and should prove a very valuable man during the ensuing season. There are many other candidates from last year's squad as well as several newcomers who will undoubtedly make a strong bid for a regular position on the varsity.

The first game of the season is with Milaca here and every effort will be made to get the eleven in shape for the opening battle. The schedule also includes a game with the strong St. Cloud Tech High School. The final game of the season will be the annual battle with Crosby-Ironton which will be played there this year.

Conditions are not ideal this year for an adequate sports program but every effort will be made to keep the athletics at the high school on as high a plane as possible. Plans are being arranged so that basketball will be the only sport to suffer materially from the conditions caused by the burning of the high school last spring.

This year a new plan has been arranged within the squad whereby Freshmen and Sophomores will be equipped and given plenty of practice in order to make them more fit for varsity competition in the future. Since this is the case a large number of Freshmen and Sophomores are expected to report for football this fall Sophomore teams will be lined up, and in all probability Freshmen and Further than that grade school boys will be called to the field whenever time allows and drills of fundamentals will be given them.

Football shoes are a very valuable part of football equipment. This being the case boys that plan on buying new shoes for the coming season should get in touch with Coach Kasch or Henry Cunningham at the John M. Bye Clothing Company before the order for shoes is made up.

Watching the Scoreboard

Yesterday's hero: Reeves, Washington second baseman, whose single with two out in the tenth inning gave the Senators a 4 to 3 victory over the Chicago White Sox.

Philadelphia gained another half game on the New York Yankees in the American League, defeating Cleveland 3 to 1, while the Yanks rested.

Owen Carroll won his 14th victory of the season as Detroit beat Boston 2 to 1. Carroll allowed only six hits.

St. Louis moved up to first place in the National League although they didn't play, by virtue of Pittsburgh's victor over New York in the second game of a double header, 13 to 3. The Giants won the first game 6 to 3, with a five run rally in the eighth.

Cincinnati used Brooklyn to reach third place, stepping over the Cubs who did not play. The Reds took both ends of a double header 2 to 0 and 6 to 1.

ST. LOUIS CARDS AHEAD BY A VERY SLENDER PERCENT

St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 24—(U.P.)—The St. Louis Cardinals today enjoyed the slender percentage lead of .000,145 over their nearest opponents in the National League pennant race, the New York Giants.

If the Cardinals win their 120th game of the year from Philadelphia here today, and the Giants win their 115th against the Pirates the difference between the two teams will shrink to .000,001, with St. Louis still o ntop.

As a result, St. Louisans have again gone baseball mad and have turned to such things as adding machines, slide rules, pencils and paper to find out where their Cardinals are and why.

Although idle yesterday, the Cardinals drew a slide-rule break when the Pirates split a double header with the Giants, forcing New York back into second place, .000,145 of a point behind St. Louis.

As the two teams took their respective fields today, the standing was:

Sunlight Baths Aid English Mine Workers

London—By taking a holiday in Switzerland and sitting in the sun five pit-boys from the mines of Mansfield have demonstrated the value of light baths for men and boys who work underground. A report of the committee which has been testing the usefulness of light in industrial hygiene has just been published.

Following the Swiss experiment with sunlight baths, a clinic was opened and 50 volunteers from the mines, fourteen to seventeen years old, have been given ultraviolet light baths several times a week for three months. At the end of the time the boys had gained in weight in average of more than four pounds. Boys of the same ages who did not get the light baths gained a little over two and a half pounds during the same three months. The boys who had the light baths gained in height more than the boys who did not.

The clinic will be continued, and the committee report recommends that wherever pithead baths are installed light baths should be established with them. The report warns, however, that artificial light baths should be given only under medical supervision.

How to Measure Fish! Who'll Say; Who'll Say?

Olympia, Wash.—How to find the length of fish is now one of the world's puzzles, so after University of Washington sages failed to agree over the method Judge Chester A. Bachelor was left to decide.

Prof. E. Victor Smith declared that since the state game law does not specify, the proper way is to measure them from tip of head to tip of tail. Now comes Dean John Cobb of the college of fisheries: "The proper measurement of a fish is from the point of 'V' in the tail to the end of lower lip." Judge Bachelor in his decision will decide if Roy Jensen was justly accused of selling fish under the legal length.

Oldest House in Paris Is Occupied by Laundry

Paris.—Seven centuries have passed and kings, emperors, wars and revolutions have come and gone, but the oldest house in Paris is doing business at the old stand.

It is a laundry, now in the center of the city, close to the Cathedral of Notre Dame. The laundry isn't that old, but the owner says the pedigree of the building goes back to Louis IX.

The date of the house, 1240, is proudly displayed on a stone set in the street wall, and the laundry's sign is "At the oldest house in Paris."

GOVERNING BODY TO PASS ON HIS AMATEUR STATUS

TILDEN WROTE 3 ARTICLES WHILE PLAYING IN WIMBLEDON TOURNAMENT

CHARGE HE RECEIVED PAY IN CONSIDERATION FOR SUCH WRITING

New York, Aug. 24—(UP)—Wm. T. Tilden's tennis fate may be decided today.

The governing body of American tennis, the United States Lawn Tennis Association, today will decide whether America's ranking tennis star is guilty of violating the national amateur ruling.

Tilden wrote three articles while playing in the Wimbledon tournament, the charges state, which were in violation of the clause which forbids "writing for pay or for a consideration current newspaper articles covering a tournament or match in which he is entered as a competitor."

Although Tilden will not be on hand to present his defense, he has written a letter to Samuel H. Collom, president of the association, in which he states his case.

This letter is a plea for clemency on the ground that his misinterpretation of the rule, rather than deliberate intent accounted for the article.

Tilden's chances of exoneration are lessened, sports followers say, because of a similar case which arose in 1925 at which time Tilden was excused after charges were made that he was trying to evade the letter of the rule.

Should the committee uphold the charge it will mean that Tilden will not be eligible to compete in any tournament sponsored by the association or affiliated bodies.

IRELAND GREETS TUNNEY WITH A BIG RECEPTION

Dublin, Aug. 24—(U.P.)—Ireland greeted Gene Tunney, the American former heavyweight champion today on what Tunney claims is his long cherished dream of visiting the home of his forefathers.

Tunney arrived here yesterday from London and was given a tremendous reception. He was greeted by General O'Duffy, Major General Hogan Walsh, director of the Tailteann athletic games, and by John McCormack, the Irish tenor.

As in London Tunney declined to discuss personal affairs, such as his forthcoming marriage to Miss Mary Josephine Lauder. He praised Ireland and said how glad he was to visit the country where his forefathers were born.

Wilce Quits as Grid Coach

DR. JOHN W. WILCE, for 15 years director of football at Ohio State university, has tendered his resignation to the university athletic board to take effect in June, 1929. He plans to enter the practice of medicine and also to teach.

The athletic board accepted the resignation "with sincere regrets." In so doing the board adopted a resolution praising Doctor Wilce and recognizing "his long, faithful and conspicuous service."

Dr. Wilce again will be head coach of football next fall according to his present plans.

Prof. Thos. E. French, chairman of the athletic board, said Doctor Wilce would have complete charge of football next fall and that he would not continue on the campus merely in an advisory capacity. The athletic board has not yet considered Doctor Wilce's probable successor, Professor French said.

Dr. J. W. Wilce.

A graduate of the University of Wisconsin, where he starred in football, basket ball and on the crew, Doctor Wilce came to Ohio State university in the spring of 1913, the year after its admittance to the western conference. He succeeded John R. Richards, also of Wisconsin.

Doctor Wilce promptly introduced spring practice and began the development of intramural athletics at Ohio State. Football teams which had the good fortune to be produced under his direction attracted wide attention almost from the very outset.

In 14 campaigns, excluding the unofficial war season of 1918, Ohio State university teams under his direction won 69, lost 28 and tied 8 games, the football records show.

Call Vance Strike-Out King

THERE may be several distinctive "schools of thought" in baseball, but Dazzy Vance, Brooklyn's great right-hander, isn't going to become gray-haired trying to out-think any batters.

Vance's idea of outguessing a batter is to put extra steam on his fast ball. He never uses a change of pace. His only counter for the fast ball is a quick-breaking curve.

"I can't slow-ball 'em," the Robin pitcher said. "When I started out in the majors in 1914 with Pittsburgh I had that idea of mixing them up. When I went to the Yankees two years later I had the same system. All that ever came of that system was that my arm became sore."

Dazzy Vance.

Arthur C. Vance, as the record books list him, doesn't have to worry along about whether this batter or that hits a fast ball or a slow ball. In a pinch Dazzy's best bet is a pitch that is just too speedy for the batter to follow.

Kiki Cuyler, Pirate batting star, declares Dazzy has the fastest ball of any pitcher in the league and believes most of the men who face the Brooklyn veteran will agree.

Vance earned the title of "strike-out king" in 1924 with Brooklyn. He fanned out 262 batters, a record not quite equal to the best marks of Walter Johnson, but one that the Washington veteran has bettered only twice in twenty years.

Vance has played with Red Cloud in the Nebraska State league, the Yankees, Pittsburgh, St. Joseph, Toledo, Memphis, Rochester, Sacramento, New Orleans and Brooklyn. After failing to make good with the Yanks and the Pirates he drifted through the minors until he had perfected his curve ball and mastered control. He has been with Brooklyn since 1922.

Sande's Successor?

BY QUIN HALL.

WHILE the experts who infest the galloping tracks of the country are trying to pick a successor to Earl Sande, it would be well to keep in mind the name of Georgie Rose.

During the racing season thus far this year about a half dozen first rate new jockeys have been discovered and have been lauded to the skies. Several of these have been proclaimed as "another Earl Sande," and included in this number is Georgie Rose, who is now busy riding at the Eastern tracks.

Young Rose, however, doesn't feel as if he yet deserves to be ranked alongside the premier jockey. He'll tell you that himself. He's only 18 years old, and while his record indicates that he's among the leading horse pilots of the country, he has the hunch that he still has lots to learn before he can hope to have the mantle of Sande draped around his shoulders. Some of the others aren't so particular. They're willing to take over the honors right away and let it go at that.

By his statement it will be judged that young Rose is modest. He is all of that and is one of the cleanest living youngsters accepting mounts on the ovals. He doesn't spend his evenings joy-riding or hanging around on the street corners. He's anxious to make better associations than it is possible to gather under those circumstances and while he isn't "high hat" he has his own viewpoints on life and they are not those usually expected from the youngsters who make their living around race tracks.

Georgie is constantly learning things and while he doesn't feel fit at present to be placed on the same plane with Sande he does feel that within a few years he ought to become a really good rider.

Young Rose doesn't crave to be a sensation and, while undoubtedly he'd like to win a goodly share of his starts, it is safe to say he wouldn't relish the hero-worship stuff that seems to go hand-in-hand with stardom in any branch of sporting endeavor.

Rose has won as many as three races in one afternoon and he did it without banging and slashing his mounts with a whip. One of his friends, who he believed was a good judge of jockeys, told him once that every time a boy drew a whip on a horse he lost half a length. Half lengths often are the deciding distances between winners and losers, and so Georgie has been studying the proposition and experimenting with his mounts.

As a result, he has discovered that his friend's advice wins in more cases than it fails, and as a consequence he doesn't use a whip on a mount unless he is especially requested to do so by the owner or the trainer prior to the race.

Georgie has all of the qualifications of a good rider and none of those bad habits which sometimes lead boys in his profession to a life of poverty. He minds his own business and tries to give every other boy a fair break.

"I'd rather lose a race on the best horse than be the cause of some other boy going down and getting hurt," is the way he sums up the business of clean riding.

He's not ready yet but some day he'll likely be known, and justly, as "another Earl Sande."

COACH KASCH TO GIVE MUCH ATTENTION TO FRESHMEN AND SOPHOMORES

Plans are being made to accommodate the largest squad of football players in the history of Brainerd High School when Coach Warren Kasch calls his warriors together in the opening session at the N. P. grounds on September 4th. Coach Kasch will have a nucleus of seven letter men from last year, around which he expects to build his 1928 gridiron machine.

The seven men are: Captain Fuller, Wise, Swanson, Guin, Goedderz, Fox and Art Hautala. Gabiou, who was ineligible last fall, has made up his scholastic difficulties and should prove a very valuable man during the ensuing season. There are many other candidates from last year's squad as well as several newcomers who will undoubtedly make a strong bid for a regular position on the varsity.

The first game of the season is with Milaca here and every effort will be made to get the eleven in shape for the opening battle. The schedule also includes a game with the strong St. Cloud Tech High School. The final game of the season will be the annual battle with Crosby-Ironton which will be played there this year.

Conditions are not ideal this year for an adequate sports program but every effort will be made to keep the athletics at the high school on as high a plane as possible. Plans are being arranged so that basketball will be the only sport to suffer materially from the conditions caused by the burning of the high school last spring.

This year a new plan has been arranged within the squad whereby Freshmen and Sophomores will be equipped and given plenty of practice in order to make them more fit for varsity competition in the future. Since this is the case a large number of Freshmen and Sophomores are expected to report for football this fall Sophomore teams will be lined up, and in all probability Freshmen and Further than that grade school boys will be called to the field whenever time allows and drills of fundamentals will be given them.

Football shoes are a very valuable part of football equipment. This being the case boys that plan on buying new shoes for the coming season should get in touch with Coach Kasch or Henry Cunningham at the John M. Bye Clothing Company before the order for shoes is made up.

Watching the Scoreboard

Yesterday's hero: Reeves, Washington second baseman, whose single with two out in the tenth inning gave the Senators a 4 to 3 victory over the Chicago White Sox.

Philadelphia gained another half game on the New York Yankees in the American League, defeating Cleveland 3 to 1, while the Yanks rested.

Owen Carroll won his 14th victory of the season as Detroit beat Boston 2 to 1. Carroll allowed only six hits.

St. Louis moved up to first place in the National League although they didn't play, by virtue of Pittsburgh's victor over New York in the second game of a double header, 13 to 3. The Giants won the first game 6 to 3, with a five run rally in the eighth.

Cincinnati used Brooklyn to reach third place, stepping over the Cubs who did not play. The Reds took both ends of a double header 2 to 0 and 6 to 1.

TILDEN'S TENNIS FATE IS TO BE DECIDED TODAY

ST. LOUIS CARDS AHEAD BY A VERY SLENDER PERCENT

St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 24—(U.P.)—The St. Louis Cardinals today enjoyed the slender percentage lead of .000,145 over their nearest opponents in the National League pennant race, the New York Giants.

If the Cardinals win their 120th game of the year from Philadelphia here today, and the Giants win their 115th against the Pirates the difference between the two teams will shrink to .000,001, with St. Louis stfil o ntop.

As a result, St. Louisans have again gone baseball mad and have turned to such things as adding machines, slide rules, pencils and paper to find out where their Cardinals are and why.

Although idle yesterday, the Cardinals drew a slide-rule break when the Pirates split a double header with the Giants, forcing New York back into second place, .000,145 of a point behind St. Louis.

As the two teams took their respective fields today, the standing was:

WHAT OUTSTANDING STARS DID YESTERDAY

Al Simmons .383—Singled, doubled and stole a base in four trips in first game: failed to hit in four trips in second.

Harry Heilmann .293—Failed to hit in four trips.

Lou Gehrig .377, Rogers Hornsby .376, Babe Ruth .332 and Frankie Frisch .300 did not play.

Sunlight Baths Aid English Mine Workers

London—By taking a holiday in Switzerland and sitting in the sun five pit-boys from the mines of Mansfield have demonstrated the value of light baths for men and boys who work underground. A report of the committee which has been testing the usefulness of light in industrial hygiene has just been published.

Following the Swiss experiment with sunlight baths, a clinic was opened and 50 volunteers from the mines, fourteen to seventeen years old, have been given ultraviolet light baths several times a week for three months. At the end of the time the boys had gained in weight in average of more than four pounds. Boys of the same ages who did not get the light baths gained a little over two and a half pounds during the same three months. The boys who had the light baths gained in height more than the boys who did not.

The clinic will be continued, and the committee report recommends that wherever pithead baths are installed light baths should be established with them. The report warns, however, that artificial light baths should be given only under medical supervision.

How to Measure Fish! Who'll Say; Who'll Say?

Olympia, Wash.—How to find the length of fish is now one of the world's puzzles, so after University of Washington sages failed to agree over the method Judge Chester A. Bachelor was left to decide.

Prof. E. Victor Smith declared that since the state game law does not specify, the proper way is to measure them from tip of head to tip of tail. Now comes Dean John Cobb of the college of fisheries: "The proper measurement of a fish is from the point of 'V' in the tail to the end of lower lip." Judge Bachelor in his decision will decide if Roy Jensen was justly accused of selling fish under the legal length.

Oldest House in Paris Is Occupied by Laundry

Paris.—Seven centuries have passed and kings, emperors, wars and revolutions have come and gone, but the oldest house in Paris is doing business at the old stand.

It is a laundry, now in the center of the city, close to the Cathedral of Notre Dame. The laundry isn't that old, but the owner says the pedigree of the building goes back to Louis IX.

The date of the house, 1240, is proudly displayed on a stone set in the street wall, and the laundry's sign is "At the oldest house in Paris."

GOVERNING BODY TO PASS ON HIS AMATEUR STATUS

TILDEN WROTE 3 ARTICLES WHILE PLAYING IN WIMBLEDON TOURNAMENT

CHARGE HE RECEIVED PAY IN CONSIDERATION FOR SUCH WRITING

New York, Aug. 24—(UP)—Wm. T. Tilden's tennis fate may be decided today.

The governing body of American tennis, the United States Lawn Tennis Association, today will decide whether America's ranking tennis star is guilty of violating the national amateur ruling.

Tilden wrote three articles while playing in the Wimbledon tournament, the charges state, which were in violation of the clause which forbids "writing for pay or for a consideration current newspaper articles covering a tournament or match in which he is entered as a competitor."

Although Tilden will not be on hand to present his defense, he has written a letter to Samuel H. Collom, president of the association, in which he states his case.

This letter is a plea for clemency on the ground that his misinterpretation of the rule, rather than deliberate intent accounted for the article.

Tilden's chances of exoneration are lessened, sports followers say, because of a similar case which arose in 1925 at which time Tilden was excused after charges were made that he was trying to evade the letter of the rule.

Should the committee uphold the charge it will mean that Tilden will not be eligible to compete in any tournament sponsored by the association or affiliated bodies.

SYMPHONY PLAYERS

Season Tickets to Fair Being Sold Today by Many Brainerd People

In spite of the rain and continued cold weather the Crow Wing County Fair at Pequot started with a fair attendance on its first day yesterday. Lieutenant Governor W. I. Nolan addressed the fair audience last night and gave an interesting talk on the opportunities of Crow Wing county and spoke concerning the state of Minnesota.

Mrs. R. L. Donovan and W. H. Morris arrived this morning from the state department of agriculture to judge the various exhibits at the fair.

The Brainerd ladies' band directed by Miss Effie Drexler are furnishing the music at the fair today, and a live stock parade led by the calf club entrants was staged this afternoon.

The principal attraction on this evening's program will be a speech by Prof. F. A. Alabaster, Dean of Wesleyan University, who will deliver his famous lecture "Humor of Epitaphs."

A band concert, platform performances and a trained animal act are also on both the program this afternoon and evening.

Emily met Pequot in a baseball game of interest to fair goers this afternoon.

The people of Brainerd can secure season tickets for the fair of Carl Wright, D. C. Gray, B. L. Lagerquist and Hilding Swanson. They may also be obtained at the Gruenhagen Company.

Mouse Expert Fly Catcher

A mouse that catches flies was the novel window display of an automobile man in Sydney, Australia. Heedless of the large crowd watching him, the tiny rodent would dart from his hiding place in a corner and spring up the window pane or take a flying leap. He would always "get" his fly. He kept the window clear of all the buzzers, and the dealer says he was the best and cheapest attraction he ever had.

FLOWER SHOW GAINS MANY NEW MEMBERS

MANY JOIN SOCIETY

Organization Regards Show as One of Most Successful They Have Staged

The Crow Wing County Garden Flower society's annual fall show closed yesterday afternoon with the sale of the flowers entered in the show at 4:15 o'clock. Many of the flowers were sold at auction while others were spoken for before. Practically all the blooms were sold and the society realized a goodly sum from the sales. The society regarded the show as one of the most successful they have staged and were delighted with the hundreds of people that came to see the splendid array of colors.

The club also gained a substantial increase in membership during the show. Before the show started the membership numbered eighty members and now the club has an enrollment of over 100 members.

The members of the society seemed very grateful to the judges of the show and were well satisfied with the decisions rendered.

The vases and bowls seen at the show were used only to decorate the table bearing the flowers of Dr. L. F. Hawkinson and Dr. G. I. Badeaux.

Poetry and the Bible

Murray's Illustrated Bible Dictionary says: "If rhyme and meter be considered essential, poetry would have to be denied to the Bible altogether. For of rhyme, there is absolutely none; and as meter depends upon pronunciation and accent, it has generally been regarded as hopeless to restore these essential elements, so long have they been lost in the transmission of the language through consonants alone."

Spain Calls Special Cabinet Meeting, Confers With Hammond

Iris Adaptable

From the study of geographical distribution of the iris it appears that the two centers of original location are central and southern Europe and the Orient, especially China. For the most part, however, the exotic species are thoroughly at home on the American continent and in certain sections have established themselves as freely as any native plant.

Do You Buy Advertised Goods?

Of course you do; everybody does. Just run over in your mind the various articles that you have purchased in the last week or the last month. How about foods? Your breakfast fruits, cereals and bacon are all advertised. Probably that is how you first came to know of them—through advertising. Probably the shoes you are wearing, or the dress or suit you have on are equally well-known advertised makes, and you are proud of them.

In the home. On the floor are rugs and linoleum—the better wearing kinds are extensively advertised. What about the kitchen? Aluminum ware, gas ranges, hot water heaters, dish and clothes washers, cooking utensils of all kinds—practically everything you use is advertised. You buy advertised products because you have confidence in them. You know that a manufacturer cannot afford to advertise shoddy or unworthy merchandise.

The more you read advertising the more you will know about human progress. You will become well posted in almost every line of human endeavor and a canny judge of values. Reading advertisements is a fine habit. Cultivate it.

Advertising is one form of insurance. It gives you a feeling of perfect confidence and safety when you ask for an advertised brand, for you know that you will get the quality and service you expect. The name is the guarantee.

W. I. NOLAN IN SPEECH AT FAIR

Liuetenant Governor of State is the Speaker at Evening Performance at Pequot

SYMPHONY PLAYERS

Season Tickets to Fair Being Sold Today by Many Brainerd People

In spite of the rain and continued cold weather the Crow Wing County Fair at Pequot started with a fair attendance on its first day yesterday. Lieutenant Governor W. I. Nolan addressed the fair audience last night and gave an interesting talk on the opportunities of Crow Wing county and spoke concerning the state of Minnesota.

Mrs. R. L. Donovan and W. H. Morris arrived this morning from the state department of agriculture to judge the various exhibits at the fair.

The Brainerd ladies' band directed by Miss Effie Drexler are furnishing the music at the fair today, and a live stock parade led by the calf club entrants was staged this afternoon.

The principal attraction on this evening's program will be a speech by Prof. F. A. Alabaster, Dean of Wesleyan University, who will deliver his famous lecture "Humor of Epitaphs."

A band concert, platform performances and a trained animal act are also on both the program this afternoon and evening.

Emily met Pequot in a baseball game of interest to fair goers this afternoon.

The people of Brainerd can secure season tickets for the fair of Carl Wright, D. C. Gray, B. L. Lagerquist and Hilding Swanson. They may also be obtained at the Gruenhagen Company.

Mouse Expert Fly Catcher

A mouse that catches flies was the novel window display of an automobile man in Sydney, Australia. Heedless of the large crowd watching him, the tiny rodent would dart from his hiding place in a corner and spring up the window pane or take a flying leap. He would always "get" his fly. He kept the window clear of all the buzzers, and the dealer says he was the best and cheapest attraction he ever had.

HOSTAGER STORE ROBBED IN NIGHT

Two Pistols Taken From Stock, Several Tires Are Reported Missing

REAR ENTRANCE MADE

Cash Register Containing Small Amount of Change Was Untouched

Police and a representative of the National Detective Bureau were busy today investigating the breaking into of the Louis Hostager store on Laurel street last night. Two Savage automatic pistols were taken from the right front window and several tires were missing. Mr. Hostager left the store at about 10 o'clock last night and the robbery must have taken place between that hour and when Charlse Hill and Patrick Rariden, two employees opened the store at 7 a. m. today and found trace of the robbery.

The intruder made his entrance through a sliding door on the west side of the building in the rear. He forced the lower right hand corner of the sliding door and squeezed through. He made his way to an inner door and after considerable forcing, by the indications on the door, pushed the top panel of the door in and opened the sliding bolt that fastened the door from the inside.

The windows on both sides of the building were untouched but fresh imprints of Ford tires back of the building led the police to believe that the invader must have parked his car there while about his work.

The intruder made his way into the tire room and the number of the tires taken is not fully decided yet. Eight 30 by 3½ over size Federal tires were on the shelf at one time yesterday according to one of the employees. Mr. Hostager took two tires from the shelf at some time in the afternoon but whether this was before the checkup was made is not certain. It is possible that the thief took three of the tires.

After visiting the tire room the intruder made his way past the cash register in the front room of the store without touching it, although it contained about six dollars in change for today's business. The guns taken from the window were not missed at once this morning.

The only clues to the robbery were finger prints on a door knob in the rear of the store which is now being protographed for finger prints at police headquarters, and an inquiry made about these particular guns by an unknown customer about 10 a. m. Tuesday.

The Hostager establishment was broken into once before a little over a month ago although a checkup showed nothing apparently missing. At this time the invaders made their entrance through a window in the back at the east side of the building.

"Ramona" a Triumph For Star Director

Brilliant, glamorous, pictorial, scintillant with romantic charm, vibrant with dramatic tensity, dynamic in its emotional moments, poignant in its bitter tragedy—that is "Ramona," the United Artists photoplay now showing at the Lyceum theatre.

It is the second offering of that brilliant trio—Edwin Carewe, the director, Dolores Del Rio, the star, and Finis Fox, the scenarist. Their first was "Resurrection," the sensational film product of 1927.

Popular Lake Hotel Burned to the Ground on Tuesday Night, Loss of $6,000

A popular lake resort was completely destroyed by fire Tuesday night when the St. Albans hotel on Mille Lacs lake burned to the ground. The hotel was located two miles south of Garrison. The loss, estimated at $6,000, is partially covered by insurance. The fire, which was of unknown origin, broke out at about 7:30 P. M.

The building has been vacant during the summer and no cause can be assigned for the fire except the rumor that the Indians had been seen around the buildings during the day. The owner, C. E. Barnard, left for the Dakotas last week.

None of the cottages surrounding the hotel were damaged by the fire.

Although it was a well known resort, it is not probable that it will be rebuilt.

HOSTAGER STORE ROBBED IN NIGHT

Two Pistols Taken From Stock, Several Tires Are Reported Missing

REAR ENTRANCE MADE

Cash Register Containing Small Amount of Change Was Untouched

Police and a representative of the National Detective Bureau were busy today investigating the breaking into of the Louis Hostager store on Laurel street last night. Two Savage automatic pistols were taken from the right front window and several tires were missing. Mr. Hostager left the store at about 10 o'clock last night and the robbery must have taken place between that hour and when Charlse Hill and Patrick Rariden, two employees opened the store at 7 a. m. today and found trace of the robbery.

The intruder made his entrance through a sliding door on the west side of the building in the rear. He forced the lower right hand corner of the sliding door and squeezed through. He made his way to an inner door and after considerable forcing, by the indications on the door, pushed the top panel of the door in and opened the sliding bolt that fastened the door from the inside.

The windows on both sides of the building were untouched but fresh imprints of Ford tires back of the building led the police to believe that the invader must have parked his car there while about his work.

The intruder made his way into the tire room and the number of the tires taken is not fully decided yet. Eight 30 by 3½ over size Federal tires were on the shelf at one time yesterday according to one of the employees. Mr. Hostager took two tires from the shelf at some time in the afternoon but whether this was before the checkup was made is not certain. It is possible that the thief took three of the tires.

After visiting the tire room the intruder made his way past the cash register in the front room of the store without touching it, although it contained about six dollars in change for today's business. The guns taken from the window were not missed at once this morning.

The only clues to the robbery were finger prints on a door knob in the rear of the store which is now being protographed for finger prints at police headquarters, and an inquiry made about these particular guns by an unknown customer about 10 a. m. Tuesday.

The Hostager establishment was broken into once before a little over a month ago although a checkup showed nothing apparently missing. At this time the invaders made their entrance through a window in the back at the east side of the building.

Love's Ecstasy
by May Christie

WHAT HAS HAPPENED SO FAR.

ALEDA RAY, pretty country girl working in New York as a stenographer, and Gary Chester, young engineer, are in love. Both are employed by W. B. Lingard, wealthy industrialist. Lingard, after years of search, finds the sweetheart of his youth, Marise de Rense, with whom Aleda is living. Goldie, eighteen-year-old sophisticate, learns that Marise is not her sister—but her mother! She demands an explanation and Marise pours out the story of her tragic early marriage—to a convict who has since died. Goldie leaves home in anger—but not before she creates a break between Aleda and Gary, who sails for Italy on a business trip. Later Lingard is forced to make a hurried trip to Paris and takes Aleda along as secretary, the Countess Dellamanca, his niece, acting as chaperone. In Paris, Gary awaits them. He takes Aleda to see the sights of the city, and in the romantic forests of St. Cloud they renew their troth.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER LVI.

GOLDIE DE RENSE — three thousand miles from the love affairs of Gary and Aleda, but cherishing a distinct animosity against the pair of them—sat in the hotel in Saratoga where she had her dance-engagement for the Summer season, and perused a letter that had just come from Clive.

"The tricky rat!" said she, biting her underlip.

She had written him to Montreal (where he was up on bootlegging business) anent her share of the "hush money" he had wrung from foolish little Mr. Smithson!

The secret roof-apartment, where Smithy—alias Briggs—gave his merry little parties!

Having supplietd the latter with champagne at $500, the artful Clive had extracted a considerably larger sum as the price of his silence—in other words, blackmail money!

"I shan't trouble you again if you meet my figure. Considering how much is at stake for you, you will admit it's moderate! And I should hate to be so ungentlemanly as to reveal certain facts to your wife!"

Smithy — alias Briggs — was in the coils of the python.

But Goldie had no pity for her quondam friend. There was only a tigerish resentment that she hadn't got her share of the hush money. . . .

She'd get it yet. She'd grab what ought to be coming to her, even if she had to throttle Clive!

But it behooved her not to quarrel with him in the meantime. Until she got that money from him, and in order to make Marise suffer the pangs of jealousy (she was convinced that Marise was fascinated by the Englishman, and so she—Goldie—would do her best to hurt her by taking Clive away from her!) she ought to be very sweet to Clive!

Her eye traveled down the letter he had just sent to her.

Rum-running across the Canadian border? That was his present game.

"So he wants me to meet him with a car? Afraid that the Federal officers are on his track?"

"I'll double-cross him! I'll have him arrested! I'll give his game away!"

With Clive in jail, what chance would there be that he would pay?

And money was what she wanted. Immediate money—"oodles" of it—so that she could queen it over Aleda, and take Gary Chester away from her (Goldie had an exaggerated idea of her own charms, especially if augmented with the almighty dollar, so that she could dress magnificently) and at the same time she'd get even with Marise. . . .

She ground her small, sharp teeth with fury when she thought how Marise had deceived her all these years!

Marise was her mother, not her sister! She, Goldie—not a de Rense—(how often she had boasted of her aristocratic Spanish ancestry!) but an ordinary girl of very ordinary stock, and her father a common criminal!

* * *

Without further deliberation, she telegraphed to Clive that she would meet him with a car at a certain spot.

"It's risky, Clive. You say you think there may be an ambush? You hadn't a right to drag me into this!"

Loaded with contraband, the man who had so legally involved Goldie, sat by her side at the wheel of the machine.

She had met him at the point specified on his map of the highway.

He had transferred his load, with her assistance, into the tonneau of the relay car that she had brought for him.

"There isn't any danger, if you keep your head!" His voice was tense and gruff.

"You mayn't get through, this time! Those prohibition agents are keen as sleuth-hounds! They'll stop us. They'll call your bluff."

"Shut up, and don't nag. I've got a gun. If need be I'll use it—"

"God, you wouldn't? You wouldn't make me a—a murderess?"

Thoughts of a recent hanging—of a girl's neck barely escaping the noose—of a life sentence meted out to her for something almost similar—whirled through Goldie's brain.

An "accessory" . . they'd call her that . . . these judges! To be shut away forever from this gay old world . . .!

Clive's only answer was to step harder on the gas. The car was going much too fast! . . . Over these roads it rocked and swayed! . . .

"Keep quiet! We're near the danger point!" Clive's eyes—nearset and now narrowed to a pin point—were on the winding highway.

"You promise me my share of Smithy's money? Swear to me that you will give me half!" Her voice was in his ear. It sounded like the hiss of a cobra.

He'd show her! He wasn't going to be bullied and commanded by any little Broadway chorine!

"I'll give you what I choose to give you, and if you make any kick about it, you won't get anything! That's flat! I know enough about you—that flower shop was running an illegal business on the side, and it was all done in your name, you little fool!—to put you in the hands of the police!"

She gave a scream that was half fury at what he d just said to her, and half fear at the fast pace of the car. She grabbed the wheel, just like a crazy creature ...there was a terrible swerve ...the crash of the axle on a boulder. . . . a shattering flash as Clive was hurled through the wind-shield...

He came to, a few minutes later. Aching from head to foot, blood on his face and hands, he crawled to the overturned car.

Caught beneath the wreck was Goldie. Her face was ghastly white...her eyes already glazed.

He could just reach her heart. He put his blood-stained hand over it...

There wasn't even the faintest flutter...

He put his ear against her lips. There was no breath...

He touched her face. It was quite cold...

Goldie was dead!

Compensation

You cannot wrong without suffering wrong. . . . The exclusive in fashionable life does not see that he excludes himself from enjoyment in the attempt to appropriate it. The exclusionist in religion does not see that he shuts the door of heaven on himself, in striving to shut out others. Treat men as pawns and ninepins and you shall suffer as well as they. If you leave out their heart you shall lose your own.—Ralph Waldo Emerson.

FATE OF "GREATER ROCKFORD" IS UNCERTAIN TODAY

Harris, announced here he also had talked with the airmen.

The airmen were reported by Harris to be stranded on a small island 50 miles off the coast of Newfoundland. This varied from the report by Williams only in the location of the island which, according to the Toledo operator was 100 miles from Newfoundland.

Harris, whose station call letters are O-CEJ, said the men announced they were safe, but in need of food and assistance.

"We are using our generator for communication," Harris quoted the airmen as saying. "The only way you can get here is by ship. Will call you again at 9 o'clock central standard time tomorrow night. Please get word to our families. Regards to all from the Rockford fliers."

Doubt was expressed by other amateurs here as to the authenticity of the signals. They asked where the fliers could get power to operate a generator. The plane's set used battery power when in the air.

Madison, Wis., Aug. 24. — Belief that someone has perpetrated messages purporting to be from Bert Hassell and Parker Cramer of the missing airplane Greater Rockford, was expressed today by Don Mix, former radio operator with the Donald B. MacMillan polar expedition. Mix helped install the radio apparatus on the Rockford-Stockholm plane.

Mix cited to the United Press numerous reasons for doubting that the messages were genuine and added:

"I cannot see how those reports received last night can be given any credence at all."

The last message which Mix received from the plane was a prearranged signal at 3 A. M. Sunday, revealing that it was 75 miles off Cape Chidley over Davis Straits. The location mentioned in the messages picked up last night is about 600 miles southeast of that point, he noted, and the course of the plane was northeast.

"Cramer could send messages of that length slowly, but he receives very slowly and I doubt if he was familiar with how to establish two-way communication," Mix said.

"Apparently the messages signed by the Greater Rockford were the work of some amateur who sent them out thinking he was being funny," Mix said.

Love's Ecstasy
by May Christie

WHAT HAS HAPPENED SO FAR.

ALEDA RAY, pretty country girl working in New York as a stenographer, and Gary Chester, young engineer, are in love. Both are employed by W. B. Lingard, wealthy industrialist. Lingard, after years of search, finds the sweetheart of his youth, Marise de Rense, with whom Aleda is living. Goldie, eighteen-year-old sophisticate, learns that Marise is not her sister—but her mother! She demands an explanation and Marise pours out the story of her tragic early marriage—to a convict who has since died. Goldie leaves home in anger—but not before she creates a break between Aleda and Gary, who sails for Italy on a business trip. Later Lingard is forced to make a hurried trip to Paris and takes Aleda along as secretary, the Countess Dellamanca, his niece, acting as chaperone. In Paris, Gary awaits them. He takes Aleda to see the sights of the city, and in the romantic forests of St. Cloud they renew their troth.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER LVI.

GOLDIE DE RENSE — three thousand miles from the love affairs of Gary and Aleda, but cherishing a distinct animosity against the pair of them—sat in the hotel in Saratoga where she had her dance-engagement for the Summer season, and perused a letter that had just come from Clive.

"The tricky rat!" said she, biting her underlip.

She had written him to Montreal (where he was up on bootlegging business) anent her share of the "hush money" he had wrung from foolish little Mr. Smithson!

The secret roof-apartment, where Smithy—alias Briggs—gave his merry little parties!

Having supplietd the latter with champagne at $500, the artful Clive had extracted a considerably larger sum as the price of his silence—in other words, blackmail money!

"I shan't trouble you again if you meet my figure. Considering how much is at stake for you, you will admit it's moderate! And I should hate to be so ungentlemanly as to reveal certain facts to your wife!"

Smithy — alias Briggs — was in the coils of the python.

But Goldie had no pity for her quondam friend. There was only a tigerish resentment that she hadn't got her share of the hush money. . . .

She'd get it yet. She'd grab what ought to be coming to her, even if she had to throttle Clive!

But it behooved her not to quarrel with him in the meantime. Until she got that money from him, and in order to make Marise suffer the pangs of jealousy (she was convinced that Marise was fascinated by the Englishman, and so she—Goldie—would do her best to hurt her by taking Clive away from her!) she ought to be very sweet to Clive!

Her eye traveled down the letter he had just sent to her.

Rum-running across the Canadian border? That was his present game.

"So he wants me to meet him with a car? Afraid that the Federal officers are on his track?"

"I'll double-cross him! I'll have him arrested! I'll give his game away!"

With Clive in jail, what chance would there be that he would pay?

And money was what she wanted. Immediate money—"oodles" of it—so that she could queen it over Aleda, and take Gary Chester away from her (Goldie had an exaggerated idea of her own charms, especially if augmented with the almighty dollar, so that she could dress magnificently) and at the same time she'd get even with Marise. . . .

She ground her small, sharp teeth with fury when she thought how Marise had deceived her all these years!

Marise was her mother, not her sister! She, Goldie—not a de Rense—(how often she had boasted of her aristocratic Spanish ancestry!) but an ordinary girl of very ordinary stock, and her father a common criminal!

* * *

Without further deliberation, she telegraphed to Clive that she would meet him with a car at a certain spot.

"It's risky, Clive. You say you think there may be an ambush? You hadn't a right to drag me into this!"

"There isn't any danger, if you keep your head!" His voice was tense and gruff.

"You mayn't get through, this time! Those prohibition agents are keen as sleuth-hounds! They'll stop us. They'll call your bluff."

"Shut up, and don't nag. I've got a gun. If need be I'll use it——"

"God, you wouldn't? You wouldn't make me a—a murderess?"

Thoughts of a recent hanging—of a girl's neck barely escaping the noose—of a life sentence meted out to her for something almost similar—whirled through Goldie's brain.

An "accessory" . . they'd call her that . . . these judges! To be shut away forever from this gay old world . . . !

Clive's only answer was to step harder on the gas. The car was going much too fast! . . . Over these roads it rocked and swayed! . . .

"Keep quiet! We're near the danger point!" Clive's eyes—nearset and now narrowed to a pin point—were on the winding highway.

"You promise me my share of Smithy's money? Swear to me that you will give me half!" Her voice was in his ear. It sounded like the hiss of a cobra.

He'd show her! He wasn't going to be bullied and commanded by any little Broadway chorine!

"I'll give you what I choose to give you, and if you make any kick about it, you won't get anything! That's flat! I know enough about you—that flower shop was running an illegal business on the side, and it was all done in your name, you little fool!—to put you in the hands of the police!"

She gave a scream that was half fury at what he'd just said to her, and half fear at the fast pace of the car. She grabbed the wheel, just like a crazy creature ...there was a terrible swerve ...the crash of the axle on a boulder. . . . a shattering flash as Clive was hurled through the wind-shield...

He came to, a few minutes later. Aching from head to foot, blood on his face and hands, he crawled to the overturned car.

Caught beneath the wreck was Goldie. Her face was ghastly white...her eyes already glazed.

Compensation

You cannot wrong without suffering wrong. . . . The exclusive in fashionable life does not see that he excludes himself from enjoyment in the attempt to appropriate it. The exclusionist in religion does not see that he shuts the door of heaven on himself, in striving to shut out others. Treat men as pawns and ninepins and you shall suffer as well as they. If you leave out their heart you shall lose your own.—Ralph Waldo Emerson.

FATE OF "GREATER ROCKFORD" IS UNCERTAIN TODAY

Harris, announced here he also had talked with the airmen.

The airmen were reported by Harris to be stranded on a small island 50 miles off the coast of Newfoundland. This varied from the report by Williams only in the location of the island which, according to the Toledo operator was 100 miles from Newfoundland.

Harris, whose station call letters are O-CEJ, said the men announced they were safe, but in need of food and assistance.

"We are using our generator for communication," Harris quoted the airmen as saying. "The only way you can get here is by ship. Will call you again at 9 o'clock central standard time tomorrow night. Please get word to our families. Regards to all from the Rockford fliers."

Doubt was expressed by other amateurs here as to the authenticity of the signals. They asked where the fliers could get power to operate a generator. The plane's set used battery power when in the air.

Madison, Wis., Aug. 24. — Belief that someone has perpetrated messages purporting to be from Bert Hassell and Parker Cramer of the missing airplane Greater Rockford, was expressed today by Don Mix, former radio operator with the Donald B. MacMillan polar expedition. Mix helped install the radio apparatus on the Rockford-Stockholm plane.

Mix cited to the United Press numerous reasons for doubting that the messages were genuine and added:

"I cannot see how those reports received last night can be given any credence at all."

The last message which Mix received from the plane was a prearranged signal at 3 A. M. Sunday, revealing that it was 75 miles off Cape Chidley over Davis Straits. The location mentioned in the messages picked up last night is about 600 miles southeast of that point, he noted, and the course of the plane was northeast.

"Cramer could send messages of that length slowly, but he receives very slowly and I doubt if he was familiar with how to establish two-way communication," Mix said.

"Apparently the messages signed by the Greater Rockford were the work of some amateur who sent them out thinking he was being funny," Mix said.
